

Research Highlights

A resampled distribution of planet systems around evolved stars

Credit: Teng et al. 2023

Multiple-planet systems are generally more metal-rich than single-planet systems from the demography of planets around evolved stars, which can be evidence for the core-accretion planet formation model.

